DO YOU HAVE THIS PROBLEM WITH YOUR AQUARIUM & DON'T KNOW IT?

A customer came in recently and was discussing how many problems he was having with his aquarium. Invertebrates would only last a short period in his aquarium and he was also having problem algae growing in the aquarium though the regular water parameters that can cause algae issues (nitrate, nitrite, phosphate) were testing out completely normal. After probing deeper into how his aquarium was plumbed, we found that he had a brass fitting on the main pump with the hose clamped with a metal hose clamp!! Over time these fittings had corroded and were affecting his aquarium inhabitants. Any underwater fittings should always be made of PVC, ABS or another “water safe” connection. Clamps should be only plastic hose clamps as they will never rust and fall apart in the water.

Many “do it yourself” hobbyists don’t realize that this could ever result into a problem for the aquarium. Take time now to look around your aquarium components and check for any sign of metal fittings. Just bring the fitting into the store and will have the appropriate type of fitting to replace it with that is aquarium safe.

Also examine your pump motor. Do you have an aquarium-safe motor? Some water pumps are designed for use only in freshwater. They may contain components that are not designed for use with the corrosive affects of saltwater. Others may be designed for pumping water out of basements yet still have parts that may corrode when used constantly running in the aquarium or garden pond.

Remember that anything you use in your aquarium should be listed as “aquarium safe” otherwise it may come back to cause you and your aquarium inhabitants mysterious problems that you may have not even considered!

COMING IN JANUARY FROM MARINELAND!! LED LIGHT FIXTURES FOR THE AQUARIUM!

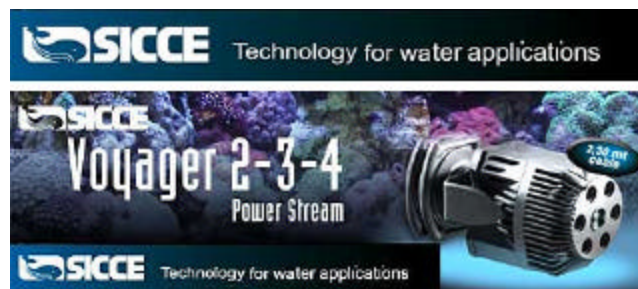

The sleek new LED strips from Marineland come in (3) sizes to accommodate most aquariums. These are expandable strips that will fit aquariums that are 18"-24", 24"-36" and 36" to 48". LED strips use a fraction of the energy consumed by standard fluorescent fixtures and are much safer for the environment. What's even better is that the LED lamps last for 17,000 hours! Each LED fixture has a 3-pole switch that allows it to be turned on with the blue and white LEDs, the blue only LEDs and the "OFF" position. For protection of the lamps, each strip comes equipped with a polycarbonate lens that is easily cleaned. The fixtures contain up to (16) LEDs (36"-48" expandable model). As soon as these are available Tideline Aquatics will have them in the store!! LED lights are the future of aquarium lighting!!

CHECK THAT AQUARIUM HEATER NOW!!

Like a defective air conditioner in your home, a defective heater may not be obvious until the temperature shifts. Take the time now to monitor your aquarium temperature. Take a reading from the thermometer (yes you should have a simple aquarium thermometer) first thing in the morning, again at mid-day and then just before you head to bed. Do this on a night when the weather is cooler. If you see that the aquarium temperature is falling yet the heater is set properly, you need to replace the heater. Don't get caught with chilled fish – replace it!
