IF YOU ARE GOING OUT OF TOWN.... DON'T FORGET TO CARE FOR YOUR FISH BEFORE YOU LEAVE TOWN....

So many folks return from out of town only to find their aquarium in a disastrous state. Here are some quick guidelines to help prevent this from happening to your aquarium.

1. Consider putting an automatic fish feeder on your aquarium prior to leaving. Set it to a low feeding regiment just to give the fish a bite to eat while you are away.
2. Remember to leave the house temperature at a reasonable setting so the aquarium heater can maintain the proper temperature in the aquarium until you return. A cold house will chill the aquarium water causing a possible disease outbreak!
3. If you have someone feeding the fish while you are gone, be sure to pre-measure out the amount of food to be fed each day. Place each feeding in a separate container so no mistakes can be made. We suggest hiding the rest of the food so as not to tempt the caregiver from feeding more than you measured out.
4. Leave an emergency number! Leave some top-off water for evaporation!

NEW CASHIER NICHOLE NOW AT TIDELINE....

After two years with Tideline Aquatics, Andrew is now headed back to college. We just hired a new cashier Nichole and she is currently in training. Please introduce yourself if you are a regular and don't be offended if she asks you for identification when you use your debit card, credit card or pay by check. She will not know you yet and it will just take her some time to know all of the regular Tideline Aquatics customers. Thank you for understanding!!
